

Rusudan Khizanishvili

Rusudan Khizanishvili lives and paints in Tbilisi, Georgia. For Rusudan a blank canvas is an intradimensional portal to the altered new world of her imagination. This domain is populated by female or male beings who lack signifiers of the local Georgian folklore, rather striving for a universal communion with a viewer. Deeply engaging with contemporary visual styles such as German and American Neo-expressionism and the outsider art, Khizanishvili produces signature meditations on nature of being and its relation to surroundings. Her confident use of color combined with a palpable and often sensuous handling of acrylic and oil paint demonstrates a maturity that proved her interesting to many galleries and residences across the world.
